(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
FACTS ABOUT BIG BOWLING TOURNAMENT.
Place, Madison Square Garden.
Duration, May 21-June 12.
Total Entries, 5,000.
Individuals Entered, 3,500.
Number of Games to be Played, 31,000.

New York, May 24.—With a record-breaking entry list, the annual tournament of the National Bowling Congress opens in Madison Square Garden tonight, and will continue for three weeks. Not only have the previous entry lists been exceeded in numbers, but the contestants will be of a more representative character than at any previous bowling tournament held in America. In addition to the principal cities of the United States east of the Rocky mountains, Canada and Germany are represented, making the tournament of a truly international character.

The entries for the five-man teams number nearly 700, which is considerably in excess of the best previous record. Entries in the two-man teams and in the individual classes also eclipse previous records. The total amount of prize money to be divided among the winners is $50,000. Among the crack bowling organizations represented are the Canadian and American Bowlers' Association, the International Bowlers' Association, the Cleveland, Great Lakes and Pittsburgh, Kings Rink of New Haven, Y. M. C. A. of Quebec, Nonpareils of Buffalo, Belmont Cricket Club of Philadelphia, Greater Roads of Reading, Panettieri and Postals of Boston, Kerns of St. Louis, Pennys of Wheeling, Diamonds of Baltimore, Genesee of Rochester, Maroons of Pittsburgh, Bonds of Columbus, and Kandy Kids of Madison, Wis.

Among the individual entrants are some of the best bowlers of the country, including John Gangel, champion of the Cincinnati National Baseball Club; Al Schuch, the famous bowler and baseball player of Columbus; Larry Sutton, the A. B. C. champion; Martin Korn of St. Louis, and Gus Steele, Frank Brill and Glen Fisher of Chicago.

Germany is represented by a five-man, two-man teams and five individual bowlers of the United Bowling Club of Berlin. The visit of these bowlers to America presents a complete novelty, it being the first time that Europeans have ever come to America to take part in a bowling tournament. The Germans bring with them a trophy donated by the United Bowling Club of Berlin for competition in the present tournament.

Twenty-four of the highest grade alleys have been laid in the center of Madison Square Garden for the tournament. They are fitted with all the latest appliances, including the Simplex pin spotters and Loop ball returns. A newly devised scoring system will record the score of every play of each game and bring the score close to the spectators.

SPRING GAMBOL OF FAMOUS LAMBS' CLUB

Old-Fashioned Minstrel Parade Down Old Broadway a Curtain-Raiser to Week's Festivities.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, May 24.—Seldom have the Broadway sidewalks been more crowded than they were this afternoon, when the members of the Lambs club indulged in an old-fashioned minstrel parade as a sort of a curtain-raiser to the grand opening of their "Spring gambol" at the Metropolitan Opera house tonight. Both sides of the street were literally packed with men, women and children desirous of seeing the two-score famous actors on parade, headed by Victor Herbert's band and with a score or more of managers, playwrights, press agents and other theatrical luminaries acting as a rear guard. All of the marchers were rigged out in high hats, long ponceos and carried canes after the true minstrel style.

The "Spring gambol" is a week's tour undertaken for the benefit of the fund that is being raised for the erection of a new home for the Lambs club. The club is famous throughout the world. Its membership embraces all of the principal actors of America, but all the prominent playwrights, composers, many well-known authors, managers, producers, and a large lay membership of lawyers, brokers, doctors and others.

Prominent among those who are to furnish the entertainment of the present tour are Willie Collier, De Wolf Hopper, Lew Fields, Joe Valerio, Ed. Roy, Andrew Mac, Henry E. Dixey, Dicky Dell, Charles Evans, Eugene Cowles, Wilton Lackaye, Robert Hill, Dustin Farnum, Harry Wood, Earl John, William Courtleigh, John Kellard, Charles J. Ross, Arthur Byron and Raymond Hitchcock. Managers and playwrights who are to participate in the gambol are David Belasco, Milton Royle, Clay M. Greene, George Broadhurst, George V. Hobart, Henry Blossom, William Gillette and Charles Klein.

The Lambs are to travel in a special train and will be accompanied by Victor Herbert with a band of fifty pieces. The tour will continue one week, during which time single performances will be given in New York, New Haven, Boston, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Chicago.

NEGROES ON TRIAL FOR ARTIST'S MURDER

Three Charged With Killing Walter Schultz of Chicago, Arraigned in Alexandria, Va., Today.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Alexandria, Va., May 24.—Dick Pines, James Dorsey and Calvin Johnson, all colored, will be placed on trial in the corporation court tomorrow on the charge of having murdered Walter F. Schultz, a Chicago artist. Henry Smith, also colored and charged with the murder, will be given a separate trial.

The body of Schultz was found near here on March 8 last. A few days later the police arrested Smith, Pines, Dorsey and Johnson, known as had negroes. Smith is alleged to have made a full confession of the crime. According to his story, Schultz, who was an inaugural visitor to Washington, came to Alexandria while slightly intoxicated and attracted the attention of three of the negroes who determined to kill and rob him.

Smith said that about 7 o'clock on the evening of March 6 he saw Schultz on a street corner surrounded by Pines, Dorsey and Johnson and heard Schultz say: "My God, don't do that way." Smith said he approached the group and when he heard that they were doing a pistol was poked in his face with a demand by Pines that he join them. Then one of the negroes threw Schultz's overcoat over the artist's head and he was picked up by all four negroes and started for a lonely field some distance out of the city, where it was the intention to stab the artist to death and rob him. When they reached a railroad track Johnson wanted Schultz, who had been beaten and cuffed on the way, placed on the track, but objection was raised, Smith said, and the artist was carried to a field close by. Here Schultz's coat was taken off, his collar unfastened and his clothing loosened down to his waist.

Smith said that a cloth similar to the kind barbers use to protect the clothing of customers in cutting the hair was placed around Schultz's neck and Dorsey thrust a knife into Schultz's throat. The victim groaned and Dorsey again plunged the knife into the neck. The victim's pockets were searched and it was thought that it would appear that the victim was not killed for purposes of robbery, Dorsey, who did the killing, according to Smith, directed that Schultz's watch be left in his pocket, saying: "Damn the watch. I have been pulled twice for a watch."

Smith's confession of the cold blooded manner in which Schultz was killed aroused intense feeling in Alexandria and for a time there were threats of lynching them.

Schultz's parents reside in Chicago. He was an artist and had traveled extensively. A letter from a married sister who lived in St. Louis City, Mo., was found in his pocket and led to the identification of the body.

Heavy Rains Causes Several Streams to Rise Rapidly Damaging Considerable Property.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Vinita, Okla., May 24.—One of the heaviest rain falls in Oklahoma in recent years has swollen the Grand, Canadian and Arkansas rivers and other streams to the flood stage, causing much damage to railroad property and farms, and partially submerging the town of Afton, twelve miles east of Vinita.

The main bout will bring together Sam Langford, the Boston negro who is an aspirant for the heavyweight title, and William "Fint" Lague, a Yorkshire man who has come into the limelight recently by his unusual ability to land a knockout blow. Lague has engaged in fourteen fights and six of them he scored a clean knockout. In his recent fight with Gunner Moir he put his man away in the first round. But none of his fights has furnished as severe a test of his ability as he will encounter tonight when he faces Langford, who is not only a hard biter but a clever and shifty boxer as well.

Late Reports.
Guthrie, Okla., May 24.—At least four lives were lost and thousands of dollars worth of damage have been done to railroad and farm property by the flood which prevailed today in northeastern Oklahoma as the result of four days of continuous rainfall. Mrs. W. W. Brown and three children were drowned at Fortner. All streams are bank full and still rising.

Jimmy Walsh, another Boston fighter, will engage in a 20-round bout with Digby Stanley, the English champion, and the fight is expected to be the English heavyweight championship. Walsh has been seen here before and is well thought of by the ring critics. The prevailing opinion seems to be that he is the superior of Stanley and should be able to win the bout handily.

Buffalo, May 24.—The Detroit passenger steamer "Western States" while entering the harbor this morning, sank the tug "Princeton" drowning three men.

The levee was the first of the official court functions arranged for the spring and early summer. The season does not promise to be especially brilliant, particularly since it has been announced that the usual garden party at Windsor Palace has been abandoned this year. The first court function of the season, however, will be held at Buckingham palace, June 11, and will be followed by a similar function two weeks later. Owing to the unusually large number of applications for presentation this year it is possible that a third court will be held.

CONSCIENCE CAN CREATE HEROESTHIS FACT EXEMPLIFIED IN OLD TESTAMENT STORIES.

THE OLD SAYING REVERSED

Rev. J. W. Laughlin in Sermon Last Night Told of Power of Conscience.

"In contrast to the words of the myriad-minded Shakespeare that conscience makes cowards of us all, I say that conscience makes heroes of men," said Rev. J. W. Laughlin in his sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church. In proof of this assertion, the minister told two stories from the book of Daniel, that of Daniel's refusal to eat of the king's food and of the miraculous preservation of his three companions from the fiery furnace, and in connection with them
he told how many times the sumo sort of spirit which was shown by these biblical characters is exemplified in modern life. The text of his sermon was taken from the book of Daniel, the eighth verse of the first chapter, and the 16th, 17th and 18th verses of the third chapter.

"But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's meat, nor with the wine
which he drank; therefore he requested of the prince of eunuchs that he might not defile himself.

"Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego
answered and said unto the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer thee in this matter. If it be our God whom we serve we are able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace; and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king. But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up."

"The stories of Daniel and of his three companions are two interesting narratives, two interesting studies of strange characters. Daniel was raised from an humble to an exalted position, and the story of his temptation and victory is ever to be read with interest and profit. He was interested, together with Shadrach, Meshach and Abed-nego, when Nebuchadnezzar captured Jerusalem, and the four were saved, because of their perfect physical development, for the purpose of becoming members of the king's household. They were to be well lodged, fed and educated for his purpose. But in their own country it had been part of their belief not to eat of that kind of meat which the king gave them nor to drink wine.
Hence Daniel's resolve as given in the text, his request to the eunuch that the four might be given pulse and water, and their resultant superlucity after a ten days' trial over the other captives. After his successful fight against what he had been taught was wrong, the opportunity came to bring him prominently before the eyes of the king in consequence of the failure of the royal enchanters
and magicians to tell what the king
had dreamed and interpret the dream.
Word came to Daniel of the failure and prospective death of the magicians. When he heard this he promised to recall to the king's mind what the dream had been, and also, interpret it. But when asked if he was able to do so he ascribed the power to God. "There is a God in heaven who reveals secrets, and he hath made known to the king, Nebuchadnezzar, what shall be in the latter days."

After thus describing Daniel's steadfastness in refusing the king's food and of his God-given power to reveal and interpret the dream, the minister went on to describe the vision and give Daniel's interpretation. In his sleep Nebuchadnezzar had seen a great image; the head of fine
gold, breast and arms of silver, thighs of brass, legs of iron, and feet, part iron and part clay. Then a stone cut without hands, smote the image, which became like chaff, while the stone grew until it filled the world.
Daniel's interpretation of this dream was that the different parts of the image represented the present and coming kingdoms of the earth, and the stone which destroyed the image represented the kingdom of God.

"Daniel's interpretation has long puzzled Bible students, some of whom think the kingdoms, which were given over to Babylon, Persia, Media and Rome."

After his description of Daniel's triumph and his resultant rise to power, the story of the golden idol and the king's command that everyone in his dominion should worship it, a command obeyed by all except the three Jews, was taken up.

At the command of Nebuchadnezzar everyone in his kingdom at a certain time prostrated to how down to the idol of gold which had made and on the refusal of the three Jews he had them bound and cast into an exceedingly hot fire, which killed those who carried them but failed to harm
a hair on the heads of the three Jews.
Not only did it leave them unscathed,
but the king, beheld, walking beside the Jews in the flames, a fourth figure whose form was like unto that of the three gods. So greatly was the king impressed that he made the God of the Jews, the God over all his people.

"Many lessons can be taught by a careful study of these stories and one of them is how God can thwart the purpose of any man who interferes with his plans. God had a plan in the case of Daniel and the three Jews and he did not intend that Nebuchadnezzar should interfere with it. Nero set fire to Rome and then told the blame on the struggling church. But God did not intend that Nero should divert his plans and after the massacres the church grew as it never had before. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church. In our own history God did not intend that Honeider Arnold should destroy the work of the patriots. The question that confronted these men was: do the things which we are doing fit in with the plans of God? That is the great question which every man should ask himself. Am I in the right? Shakespeare has said that conscience is the conscience makes cowards of us all, but I say that conscience makes heroes of men. There are no heroes like the heroes of conscience's make. It is the only thing in the world to go with the crowd, but it takes a hero to do right when the crowd is going the other way. Not only in the ancient times is this true, but it is shown thousands and thousands of times in modern life. It makes heroes of businessmen today. They have countless chances to do dishonest things but stand loyal to what their consciences tell them is right.

"Another thing to be noted in these stories is how a resolution formed in the heart shows itself in the life of the person. Daniel resolved in his heart that he would not defile himself and the Lord helped him.
Thousands of men and women have conquered their lower nature because they have resolved in their hearts to do so. That is the trouble with the members of the church today. They come to worship and only half resolve to lead a new life. And they always fail. The resolution was not well made. What is true in the religious life is true in the secular. Lord Lyttton, Lord Beaconsfield and many others were laughed at when they first attempted to do what they desired,

THE REVEREND ROBERT C. DENISON

but in the end, by sheer pluck and perseverance they succeeded and attained a position far above those who had laughed at them in the beginning.
"When a man has resolved in his heart and has striven persistently it has been shown that he does not stand alone. When the three Jews were thrown into the burning fiery furnace they were not alone for a fourth walked with them and he was like unto a son of the gods. So it is in any man's life. If he resolves in his heart, he does not fight the fight alone but another who is stronger and better walks by his side and shares his burden. He is a firm foundation for mortal to build upon and if man approaches him in the right spirit he transforms and changes his life."

Preventive of Nightmares.
In certain parts of England there is a curious belief in regard to nightmares. A correspondent writes: "I recently observed a large stone, having a natural hole through it, suspended inside a Suffolk farmer's cowhouse. Upon inquiry of a laborer I was informed this was intended as a preventive of nightmares in the cattle. My informant added that a similar stone suspended in the bedroom, or a knife or stool laid under the foot of the bed was of equal service to the sleeper, and that he had himself frequently made use of this charm."

Children's Party: At the Presbyterian church parlors Saturday afternoon seventy-five little members of the primary department enjoyed a children's party. Ice cream and cake were served and several hours were devoted to games and a general good time. Thirty of the children's mothers witnessed the festivities.

THINK HARD
It Pays to Think About Food.

The unthinking life some people think often causes trouble and sickness. Illustrated in the experience of a lady in Pond du Lac, Wis.
"About four years ago I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, always having eaten whatever I liked, not thinking of the digestible qualities.
This indigestion caused palpitation of the heart so badly I could not walk up a flight of stairs without sitting down one or twice to regain breath and strength.

"I became alarmed and tried dieting, wore my clothes very loose, and many other remedies, but found no relief.
"Hearing of the virtues of Grape-Nuts and Postum, I commenced using them in place of my usual breakfast of coffee, cakes, or hot biscuit, and in one week's time I was relieved of my stomach and other ill attending indigestion. In a month's time my heart was performing its functions naturally and I could climb stairs and hills
and walk long distances.

"I gained ten pounds in this short time, and my skin became clear and I completely regained my health and strength. I continue to use Grape-Nuts and Postum for I feel that I owe my good health entirely to their use.
"There's a Reason."
"I like the delicious flavor of Grape-Nuts and by making Postum according to directions, it tastes similar to mild high grade coffee."

HAS ACCEPTED A NEW HAVEN CALLREVEREND R. C. DENISON AN-NOUNCES HIS DECISION TO CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
SUNDAY MORNING.

LEAVES ON JULY FIRST

Will Spend Part of the Summer in San Francisco, Where He Will Preach Four Sundays—Goes
East Early in Autumn.

Reverend Robert C. Denison, pastor of the Congregational church, announced at the morning service of that church Sunday morning that he had decided to accept the call to the United Church of New Haven, Conn., and tendered his resignation to the Janesville church. His resignation is to take effect July first, at which time he will go to San Francisco, where he has been invited to preach for the four Sundays in July at the First Congregational Church of the Golden Gate city.

Mr. Denison's resignation did not come as a surprise to his church, as the offer from the New Haven church is one which means a much broader field than the Wisconsin church offers and is one of the most important Congregational churches in the east. During the past few years Mr. Denison has had advantageous offers from churches in Chicago, Minneapolis, Grand Haven, Michigan, and finally the United Church at New Haven, the home of Yale University and one of the most important divinity schools
of the Congregational church.

The United Church is located within a few rods of the University and is known the church world over, due to the efforts of Dr. T. T. Munger, for years its active pastor, now the Pastor Meritt. Two assistants, an assistant pastor and a lady, will aid Mr. Denison in the active work of the church, the congregation being the largest in the University city.

After his return from the west Mr.
Denison will move his family east, taking up his new duties during the latter part of September about the time the University opens for its fall Semester. Reverend W. A. Rowell of Beloit was formerly an assistant at the church and Mr. Denison takes the place made vacant by the death of Reverend Artemus J. Haynes.

In leaving Janesville Mr. Denison will round out twelve years of work with the Congregational church here and will take with him the best wishes of hundreds who have felt the influence of his presence and who have listened to his sermons and followed his teachings. Janesville as a city loses one of its strong men, who has always been interested in its welfare and progress.

Rev. Denison was born in Godfrey, Ill., but his boyhood and early life were spent in St. Louis. Here his father, Hon. George Denison, was judge of the Circuit Court. His preparations for a college education were made in Smith Academy at St. Louis.
After passing through this school he studied at Shurtleff College at Atlanta, Ill., then went to Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., graduating from there in 1889.

A year was spent in the study of theology at the University of Chicago, and then after two years of study in Andover Institute he was graduated from there in 1892. Following his preparation to the schools and colleges he spent a year in social settlement work in Boston. From Boston he went to Little Rock, Ark., and was there ordained a minister in the spring of 1891. Here he assumed his first charge, remaining there until some months before he took charge of the Janesville church.

While in Little Rock he was taken sick with typhoid fever and had to leave there on account of his health.
He served his supply pastor at Atlanta, Ill., then in St. Louis for three months and received a call to take up the work there, but the elimate of the South was injurious to his health and he decided to come north, accepting the call of the Janesville church.
During the summer of 1906, for three months, he acted as pastor of the church in Dundee, Scotland. Last summer was his next long vacation, when he, with Malcolm, Donald and Kenneth Jeffris, visited Japan.
In announcing his resignation, Rev.

A Quiz For Men

If ready-made clothing fits
just as well as made to measure
—why do men who are always well dressed wear made to measure clothing? If made to measure clothing costs only a trifle more than ready-made, why isn't the fine appearance, the better clothes, the lasting qualities worth a dollar or two more?
Doesn't every man know a ready-

why don't you get one instead of

TRAIN ROBBERS DROP FROM SIGHT

COUNTRY AROUND OMAHA IS SCOURED IN SEARCH FOR BANDITS.

STEAL THE REGISTERED MAIL

Union Pacific Hold-Up Men Believed to Have Fled in Automobile After Getting Loot Reported to Be $200,000.

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—Secret service men, post office inspectors, Union Pacific detectives and the police and sheriff's deputies of Omaha are following every clue that may lead to the capture of the bandits who held up and robbed the limited train three miles west of the city late Saturday night.

Two empty mail pouches taken from the train were found some distance from the point where the robbery occurred. They had been cut open, and their contents removed, the outlaws overlooking only one package. One report says the robbers got $200,000.

Plans Were Well Laid.
That the robbers had laid their plans well is apparent. They dropped from sight so quickly that not a single person has been able to give a clue to the direction in which they went. The empty mail pouches were found near Forty-third and Jackson streets, which leads the police to believe that the robbers came to the city after holding up the train.

All four of the men wore long rain coats and their features were entirely masked, giving no opportunity for members of the train crew to identify them.

The Union Pacific railroad has made every effort to trace the men but has found little in the way of clues in which to work.

Postal Authorities at Work.
Every town in the country has been notified and sheriffs of surrounding counties have been keeping a lookout for strangers. The post office department has also taken steps to aid in the search.

What means of escape the robbers selected is indefinite, but the authorities believe they had either an automobile or a fast horse. The fact that only two of the rifled pouches have been found indicates that they were in no hurry to divide their loot, and Capt. Savage of the city detective department believes his men will be able to obtain some trace of the outlaws before they can get far away.

The automobile theory is strengthened by the discovery of a greasy glove which the robbers had dropped at the point where the two empty mail pouches were found. The police believe it belonged to an automobile chauffeur, and the automobile record of this city and South Omaha is being investigated.

Good Place for Robbery.
The robbers evidently got on the train at some town west of here. The hold-up occurred in a deep cut along the recently constructed lane cut-off. The robbers climbed over the tank and forced the engineer to stop his train and then proceeded to the mail car. The clerks were forced to open the door and hand out a number of pouches of registered mail. Having secured the bags, they hurried away in a southerly direction and permitted the train to proceed.

The passengers were not molested, and as soon as the robbers left the scene of the hold-up the train proceeded to this city. A big squad of police hurried to the scene and quickly started in pursuit of the bandits.

There were eight clerks on the mail car, and they were forced to open the door. The chief clerk was snatched out and asked to point out the registered mail.

Bandit Mentions Automobile.
This he did, and the robbers gathered up seven pouches and the leader then remarked:

"This is all we can get into our automobile."

A continuous fusillade of shooting was kept up during the robbery, evidently to intimidate passengers and crew. A flagman who went to the rear narrowly escaped being shot. Several passengers who had not retired started to get out of the vestibules, but in no uncertain tones the robbers ordered them back into the cars.

The train was detained but 15 minutes and left Omaha for Chicago on time.

TWO-DOLLAR COUNTERFEIT OUT

Treasury Officials Discover a Bad Bill Bearing No. 1110.

Washington, May 24.—Treasury officials have in their possession a counterfeit $2 silver certificate of the series of 1890. It bears the check letter "A" and face plate is No. 1110; has the portrait of Washington and the signature of W. T. Vernon, registrar of the treasury and Charles H. Treat, treasurer of the United States.

No attempt has been made to imitate the silk fibre effect. The worst feature of the counterfeit is the portrait of Washington. In that it does not stand out in relief to the background, which fails to give the life-like appearance of the genuine. Darker green ink than that used on the genuine is used on the back of the spurious paper.

BLOODHOUNDS HUNT MURDERER.

Limo (O.) Citizens Threaten to Lynch Lawyer Who Killed Woman.

Lima, O., May 24.—Mrs. Maude Diltz, a young widow, who recently came to this city from Waynesfield, was shot and killed at her home last night by John Hoan, a lawyer and real-estate man from whom she rented the property. He fired two shots at a neighbor. Jealousy prompted the murder. Bloodhounds were placed on the trail.

The police exchanged several shots with Hoan, crossing a farm east of the city. The streets were soon crowded with excited citizens, who threatened to hang the murderer should he be caught.

PROHIBIT ANARCHIST SPEECH.

Emma Goldman Not Allowed to Talk in New York.

New York, May 24.—Although proposing to discuss nothing more revolutionary than the "Modern Drama as a Disseminator of Radical Thought," Emma Goldman was prevented by the police from addressing a crowd of several hundred persons who assembled in a hall in Harlem to hear her.

The police had difficulty in dispersing those who had paid for admission to the hall, and in one instance, at least, had to resort to blows. Two arrests were made.

Preparing for Balloon Races.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24.—Preparations are about complete on the grounds of the new automobile speedway north of this city, said to be the best-equipped plant of its kind in the world, for the balloon races of the Aero Club of America, which will start here at four o'clock in the afternoon of June 5.

SENATE CLASH OVER LUMBER

McCUMBER AMENDMENT FOR NO DUTY STARTS DEBATE IN SENATE.

HEYBURN ASKS HIGH RATE

Opposes North Dakota Solon's Plan to Admit It Free—May Work Twelve
Hours Daily on the Tariff Bill
Until Final Vote.

Washington, May 24.—When the senate convened today the fight over the lumber schedule was resumed. Senator McCumber of North Dakota led the forces for free lumber and Senator Heyburn of his neighboring state, Idaho, continued his speech in favor of a high duty.

Senator Aldrich will continue to urge the fixing of a day for the taking of the final vote on the bill. He is not sanguine of immediate success, and discourages all morbid prophecies of an all-night session.

It is proposed in case of night sittings that the daily sessions shall begin at 11 in the morning and end at 11 at night.

McCumber Presents Amendment.
Senator McCumber presented his amendment providing for free lumber instead of $2 per 1,000 as in the Dingley law and $1 as provided by the house bill last Saturday. He declared the lumber industry needed no protection. There was, he said, no danger that any of the American lumber mills would be closed because of foreign competition. The increasing demand for these forest products tends to keep up the prices.

Senator North opposed Senator McCumber's view that a tariff on lumber would tend to deplete the forests. "It is incredible," he said, "that the human race is going to pariah rather than plant trees on land of no use except for the planting of trees."

Aldrich Jests with Him.
Exchanging views with Senator McCumber on the need for protecting everything produced in this country and occasionally appealing to Senator Aldrich, he was interrupted by the senator from Rhode Island, who asked, apparently jestingly, "with whom he wanted to make a trade."

"It is not only a revisionist downward on products of other states," said Senator Eldridge, referring to the senator from North Dakota, "but a revisionist clear out of sight. He wants five cents more a bushel on wheat and 100 per cent. on rye raised in his state. This is what this downward revisionist on other people's products wants."

PREFERS HOUND TO FAMILY.

Quarrel Over Dog Separates Farmer from Wife and Children.

Fairfield, Ill., May 24.—Choosing between his wife, the mother of his three children, and a worthless hound dog, with pendent ears, Henry H. Traue, a farmer five miles north of this city, has chosen to cleave unto the latter and forsake the former. As a result a divorce suit was filed in the circuit court here, also asking alimony.

The Traues quarreled over the dog, the wife insisting that it was a useless member of the household. Agreeing to sell the animal, Mr. and Mrs. Traue came to this city and Mrs. Traue was left at a dental office while a purchaser for the dog was sought.

Immediately starting back home, Traue is said to have loaded up some of the best of the furniture and driven in a wagon back to Strausburg, their former home. A suit was first filed for wife and child abandonment.

PRISON MAN HUNT ENDS.

Negro Who Evaded Guards Caught When He Got Hungry.

Columbus, O., May 24.—Harvey Johnson, the negro burglar serving a life sentence, who disappeared Wednesday night and who had been hiding at the prison, is now in solitary confinement, awaiting trial in the prison court for his attempted escape.

Johnson's hunger is responsible for his surrender, which occurred after he had been trod on the top of the washhouse in the prison yard. Despite the utmost vigilance of guards and prison attendants, Johnson had eluded capture by hiding under the porch of the prison post office.

Kansas College Students Drown.

Manhattan, Kan., May 24.—While rowing in the Blue river, Miss Gladys Irish of Manhattan and Walter Goddard of Minneapolis, Kan., were drowned. Their boat struck a snag and capsized. Both were students of the Kansas Agricultural college here.

Dutch Ship in Distress.

Valparaiso, Chile, May 24.—The Dutch ship "Nederland," which sailed from Melbourne, Australia, for Valparaiso on March 23, has arrived at Coquimbo in distress. Capt. Sparid, four seamen and a boy were washed overboard off Cape Horn.

TRIAL OF MILLIONAIRE NEARS ITS SIXTH MONTH

State and Defense in Calhoun Bribery Case Make Bitter Fight for Victory.

San Francisco, May 24.—Perjury charges by counsel for the defense, plots and conspiracies by detectives for state and defense, have added to the bitterness of the trial of Patrick Calhoun, a multi-millionaire who is accused of bribery.

The trial which is nearing its sixth month has produced more sensational testimony than any of the bribery graft cases tried since the exposure of municipal corruption in San Francisco in 1906. With practically unlimited financial backing the case has been bitterly fought since January 12.

When the trial was resumed today Judge Lawlor was called upon to decide whether he has authority in defense of two restraining orders of other courts of similar jurisdiction to break the seals on a package alleged to contain documents stolen from William J. Burns' office and found in the safe of William M. Abbott, general attorney for the United Railroads in a raid under a search warrant.

Foundation was also laid by Francis J. Heney, the prosecutor, to make inquiry into the dynamiting last spring of the home of James L. Gallagher, the star witness for the prosecution in all the bribery graft cases.

With the new turn in the case, it is doubtful whether argument will be reached before some time next week even if the defense should not offer any evidence.

WOULD INVOICE RESOURCES.

Conservation Committee Plans Investigation in All States.

Washington, May 24.—Inventories of the natural resources of every state and territory are proposed in a plan just announced by the joint committee of conservation in this city. The joint committee is national headquarters for the conservation movement, and has offices in the Wynt building. All of the 48 big national organizations now working with the joint committee through their conservation commissions are to be asked to help, each in its own special field.

The plan contemplates the practical application by the states and national organizations of the conservation principles declared by the governors and presidents in their notable conference at the White House a year ago. Letters explaining the plan have been sent out to the chairmen of the official conservation commissions which the governors of 38 states have appointed, and letters to the national organizations will follow.

The joint committee suggests early meetings of the state conservation commissions to take up, first, the most pressing conservation problems in the respective states. For instance, in Louisiana it is the terrible waste of natural gas which the state conservation commission is already trying to stop. In Oregon a pressing question has been water power, which is also a leading issue just now in Michigan and Wisconsin. In many states it is the forest question. The question of the conservation of water power takes a front rank in a great many states, and it is becoming more and more of a general issue.

At the annual meeting of the Ministerial union this morning the address was made by Prof. William H. Carruth of Lawrence, Kan. This afternoon there was a public meeting of the National Alliance of Unitarian and other liberal Christian women, which was addressed by Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Mrs. John A. Bellows, Mrs. John W. Day and others.

To-night the anniversary reception will be held in the Hotel Somerset. President and Mrs. Samuel A. Eliot, Gov. and Mrs. E. B. Draper and Secretary and Mrs. L. G. Wilson will receive.

According to their story the boys left Saginaw last December, going from there to Los Angeles, to San Francisco, to Cincinnati, and then here. They leave today for Saginaw again.

SECRETARY DICKINSON ILL; RETURNS FROM THE CANAL

Head of War Department Hurries Home When Stricken—Satisfied with Work.

Washington, May 24.—Forced to cut short his inspection of the Panama canal by illness, Secretary of War Dickinson has returned to Washington. Although weak from his illness, he is improving. On the voyage home he was unable to leave his berth in the yacht Mayflower.

The secretary was standing on the bridge of the Mayflower with Mrs. Dickinson and the other members of the party, which included Brig. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Ewing, James Ross Todd, Henry D. Lindsay, Mrs. Owsley and Lincoln H. Clark, when the little vessel arrived at the navy yard. He was first ashore and while showing signs of his illness, he appeared to be improved. He assured the waiting reporters that he would be all right as soon as he had regained his lost strength.

Mr. Dickinson expressed pleasure at the progress being made in the construction of the Panama canal, but when asked regarding conditions in Cuba, the Mayflower having touched there on the return trip from the canal zone, he laughingly replied: "I only saw Cuba through a port-hole."

Entering a carriage, the secretary and Mrs. Dickinson were driven at once to Fort Myer, where they were the guests of Gen. Bell.

ADVERTISEMENTS AS NEWS

The day of stereotyped advertising is past—the day when merchants bought a stated amount of space in a newspaper to be used every day and changed the copy once a month or twice a year. In these good old days it was no uncommon thing to read holiday announcements in the summer, and fourth of July fireworks for sale at Thanksgiving.

These were the days when men felt that they must support the home paper, and so contributed with but little hope of results, and were seldom disappointed; the days when mail order houses were unknown and sharp competition unthought of.

But a change has come over the scene and advertising today is not only an art, but commands the best talent that money can buy, both in design and preparation of copy for the now feature is so important that its value is fully recognized.

The women of the land are the chiefs of the household. They read the ads as religiously as the men, and no bargain escapes notice. Some years ago the Chicago merchants decided to make Monday the bargain day of the week and so the Sunday papers were filled with announcements of special sales.

Results were more than satisfactory and soon Monday became the big sale day of the week.

The retail merchants in the loop district spend annually $11,000,000 on newspaper advertising, and have never been accused of extravagance in this direction. "The Fair" paid the Chicago News $11,000 last year, and this was only one of a dozen papers patronized.

People read ads today for the information contained, and this is news pure and simple. They are not interested in the statement that John Smith has the best stock of goods in town, but when John Smith offers a bargain they sit up and take notice.

This is the secret of mail order advertising, a description of the article and the price. The article may be inferior, and the price, quality considered, anything but cheap, but there it is in bold type, and it does the work.

Any merchant can meet this kind of competition by adopting the same methods, not by the use of a catalogue, for that is impractical, but through the columns of the home paper which is religiously read, and which is more effective when intelligently used.

Samuel Hopkins Adams has a story on advertising in the last number of "Collier's" which is worth reading. He relates how "Kipling" on receiving a batch of magazines from a friend who had torn out the back pages, to save postage, wrote:

"Next time you keep the front part, and send me the ads. I can write stories myself." And also tells how success came unexpectedly to Robert Bonner.

"When the New York Ledger was wavering on the brink of failure, Robert Bonner, the proprietor, sent to the New York Herald a brief advertisement, to be set up in a single line. So Greco-Lesque was Mr. Bonner's handwriting that the advertising manager interpreted the directions as ordering that the copy be run in full page, which instructions he obeyed, though marveling greatly. The 'Herald' came out the next morning with one whole page devoted to the crisp adjuration to read the 'Ledger's new story. The effect upon Mr. Bonner was almost fatal, first from chagrin at the thought of the possible bill, then from amazement as subscriptions began to pour in, and finally from satisfaction, as they continued to flood the office, until the fortune of the publication was made. The novel, though accidental, device had struck the public fancy. Mr. Bonner was hailed as the pioneer of a new and daring theory of exploitation, and the advertisement gained tenfold currency by being commented upon as a feature of the news. Only two years ago Mr. Thomas W. Lawson's brilliant stock pronouncements, though published as advertisements, were quoted as news because their effect upon the market was such that they could not be omitted from any comprehensive consideration of the day's financial history." It pays to advertise.

A DANGEROUS PROPOSITION

The Brotherhood of Operative Pottery will meet in July at Atlantic City, and one of the important questions to be discussed is the question of allegiance.

The Trenton potters will attempt to pass a resolution to prevent any members of their union from joining any military organization likely to be called out to aid in suppressing strikes. It will be remembered that during a recent strike of this organization scenes of violence took place and were finally only suppressed with the aid of the National Guard. It is, of course, a proposition to join the Guard which the union will deny to its members.

It is the same old question of lawlessness, and places loyalty to an organization above loyalty to the land which gives protection, a proposition so dangerous that organized labor should hesitate to entertain it. The Wall Street Journal says of it:

"Here is a square issue at last, and the Operative Potters of Atlantic City will find themselves attracting a great deal of popular interest. Any such prohibition placed upon a citizen of the United States is a defiance of every free citizen of this country. It is true that service in the National Guard is voluntary, but in times of stress it can be and has been made compulsory, and beyond that, every citizen, whether belonging to a military organization or not, is legally bound when called upon to assist in upholding the public peace."

"There is not the slightest ill-will on the part of this newspaper to labor unions as such. They have their undoubted rights, and their proved usefulness. Doubtless the lot of many of their members is a hard one, even with all the influence which their organization can bring to bear, but this does not absolve them from the duties of citizenship. Only the other day in Chicago a citizen, summoned to serve upon a jury to try certain labor union leaders for misuse of their office, said that he would not in any circumstances convict a labor union man, even if he believed him guilty."

"This is the problem we are facing, and it is one which equally affects the workman who recognizes no law superior to his organization, or the corporation official who believes that any crime, from false weights to perjury, is condoned by the fact that it is perpetrated on behalf of the corporation to which he owes his allegiance. These men are the true anarchists. They unsettle the foundations not only of our government, but of all governments. Their attitude constitutes treason to the state, not different, in principle, from that of a soldier in time of war."

R. T. Crane, president of the Crane Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, has stirred up the educators of Illinois by denouncing the state university as impractical and unworthy of support. The Wisconsin legislature could read Mr. Crane's criticism to advantage. Many taxpayers are anxious to know why they should be called on to pay $150 a year for the education of non-resident pupils who are charged $50 a year or $200 for a four-year course, which costs the state $2,000. That may be philanthropy, but it is of the sort which smacks of recklessness with the people's money.

The people of the city generally will share in regrets expressed by members and friends of the Congregational church, over the loss of their pastor. Mr. Denison has been so closely identified with the welfare and development of the city for a dozen years or more that he has won the title of the "citizen preacher," a man among men in the everyday walks of life as well as a clergyman. The town will miss him, as well as the church which he has served so acceptably, and a Godspeed will go with him to his new field of larger opportunities.

The mayor of Foster, Ohio, Carl C. Anderson, was elected to congress last fall but declined to resign his city office, which pays $1,000 a year, so the town is jogging along without a mayor, after rejecting four men appointed by Anderson to fill the vacancy. Ohio is noted for political ambition, but one office usually satisfies the most enthusiastic aspirant.

OBSTINATE JOHN.

John Ilkon was a man of means; also of feeble health; And divers brothers, nephews, aunts and others sought his wealth; But though their wishes went one way, while all of them would like, And weep about his falling health, old John refused to die.

His brother Jim, kicked by a mule, went where good brothers go; His brother Sam sat potted ship and he went there also; The nephews buried aunts, and then would, one by one, depart, While John lived on complaining of his liver and his heart.

And when the last one of the bunch had vanished from this life; Old John sidetracked his liver while he went and got a wife; And though she's young, the people say, she might as well not try To fall heir to his money, for old John will never die.

KILLING A MOTHER.

The state of New York killed Mary Farmer, wife and mother, last month. It was a sickening story. They hanged the woman in a chair, having shaved her head, and the executioner described an arc with a lever, sending the dandy current into her convulsed frame.

And then— After examination they found that Mrs. Farmer still had a spark of the life that God had given her, and—again the electricity.

Warden Bonham telegraphed the governor following the execution: "There were no distressing incidents."

In the estimation of the calloused warden the killing had been done with neatness and dispatch. No distressing incidents? Was it no distressing incident that a wife was being killed by the state while her husband prayed in his cell; that a baby boy should be made an orphan; that every woman in the land should be shocked at the dismemberment of her sex; that society should be brutalized by the spectacle; that the ideal of civilization should be moved backward?

No distressing incidents? Why, the whole life of Mary Farmer was a distressing incident.

She was a poor, ignorant woman who never had a chance.

Both heredity and environment combined to make her what she was. Her surroundings had calloused her heart and stunted her mind.

Society made her what she was and then killed her for being what she was and doing what she did!

Is that too strong?

But can you expect anything but degradation and disease and crime from the Mary Farmers whose society feeds with the mealy crumbs thrown from its sumptuous tables?

Mary Farmer went to her own place—the place the world made for her. Under provocation she did just what might have been expected of her.

To say this is not to condone her crime, but—the pity of it!

When the history of our times is read by the people of 2000 they will be horrified to learn that commonwealths officially killed ignorant and erring women.

Without "distressing incidents."

It's a common thing to hear the Dental traveling men come into Dr. Richards' office and find him as busy as a bee.

"Say, 'Well, Richards, I've been around to all the other dental offices today, and you are the only man I have found who is doing anything.'"

"People are keeping him busy because he is doing."

"Painless work at a reasonable price. There are a few people who rather pay $10.00 for gold crowns because possibly they think they are getting better value thereby."

"But the fact remains that Dr. Richards is putting out hundreds of gold crowns at exactly $5.00 each."

UNION HOUSE IS ONCE MORE OPEN

CITY DADS ACTED WITHOUT JURISDICTION.

IN REVOKING BAR PERMIT

Service of the Summons Was Faulty Says Judge Grimm—Council to Start Procedure Over Again.

According to Judge Grimm's decision which was received today, the common council, by reason of its failure to have a proper summons served on Mrs. Margaret Walrath, at the proper time, acted without jurisdiction in revoking the saloon April 19, of the Union House bar on April 19, and the whole proceeding will have to be gone through with again. City Attorney Maxfield issued on April 24 a writ of certiorari to quash the writ of the court and it is understood that the action of the council will be reversed and set aside with costs against the city of Janesville.

The council will this evening, in all probability, pass a new resolution directing the city clerk to issue a new summons citing Mrs. Walrath to appear on a day therein named, not less than three days or more than ten days from the date of the order, and show cause why her license should not be annulled. In the meantime, Atty. J. J. Cunningham's contention having been upheld, the bar has been reopened for business. Judge Grimm's opinion is as follows:

It appears from the record now before the court for review that upon a sufficient complaint presented to the common council an order was made by the council that a summons be issued commanding the relator, Margaret Walrath, to appear at the council chambers at the city hall on the 12th day of April, 1909, at 8 o'clock p. m., or as soon thereafter as the matter could be heard, and show cause why her license should not be revoked; and that thereupon such summons was duly issued bearing date April 7th, 1909. It further appears that such summons was not served upon the relator at any time prior to the hearing, and that at the time set for hearing, by special appearance, counsel for the relator objected to the jurisdiction of the council because of such want of service, and the matter was adjourned to April 19th. Thereafter, on the 16th day of April, without indication that the hearing therefor set for April 12th had been changed to April 19th, the original summons requiring appearance on the 12th (then four days passed) was served on the relator. It must be obvious that such notice of a hearing at a time already passed, could be of no effect whatever. Whether the common council acted under section 1553 R. S., providing for a time of hearing not less than three nor more than ten days from the date of the summons, or under the special chapter, providing for a similar notice of summons subsequent when the hearing was an utter failure to comply with the law, and the council was without jurisdiction to act upon the question of revocation. The law in this instance, upon the impetative of a proper complaint it is not only the duty of the council to act with reasonable promptness, but in doing so to follow the method prescribed by law. There was but one proper course for the council to pursue when on April 12th it found that the summons had not been served, and that was to fix a new day and direct the issuance and service of a new summons; and this is beyond the question even now its duty.

The statements above made are not for the purpose of criticism but to show why the order of revocation is void. The council, in not fully complying with the law in this instance, acted in the utmost good faith and according to the light it had, and no blame can attach to them. Now that its attention is called to the requirements of the law it will no doubt act accordingly.

ATTORNEYS GUESTS AT WHEELER HOME
Members of Janesville Bar And Visitors Were Royally Entertained Saturday Evening.

Nearly all the members of the Janesville bar and three attorneys from Madison, Judge A. L. Sanborn of the U. S. District court, Assistant U. S. Attorney Harry H. Morgan, and former Assistant U. S. Attorney Henry P. Sheldon, attended the farrow dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Wheeler at their home on Court street Saturday evening. Following the roast, several hours were devoted to reminiscences and social conversation and just before the leave-taking Order of the Fethers in behalf of the assembled guests, presented Mrs. Wheeler with a beautiful cluster of roses and the host with deluxe editions of Kipling's works and Burns' poems. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler expect to be settled in their new home in Milwaukee in the course of about three weeks, the former having already commenced his duties as Wisconsin legal representative of the C. & N. W. railway system.

SEWER EXTENSIONS WILL BE PROPOSED
For Several Districts at the Regular Meeting of the Common Council This Evening.

The common council, at the regular meeting to be held this evening, will consider some proposed sewer extensions in Districts 10, 11, and 12. Mulholland & Son of Kaukauna arrived here today and commenced operations on Division street where, by reason of the sandy soil, the most difficult section of sewer under contract is to be laid. The firm's bonds will probably be approved this evening. City Engineer Korch will submit the plans for water, gas, and sewer service pipes on that section of South Main street which is to be paved with brick and a number of sidewalk grades which have been ordered. The committee's recommendation that the contract for building such cement walks as shall be ordered by the city, according to the official specifications, be awarded to Al. Hill, will doubtless be adopted. The milk ordinance, which was given its first and second readings many weeks ago, is the only unfinished business before the City Fathers.

JIM IRWIN GIVEN SECOND CHANCE TO LEAVE COUNTRY
Sentence for a Penitentiary Offense Was Suspended Three Years Ago.

Jim Irwin, who signed an agreement three years ago to leave the city and stay away five years on condition that sentence for a penitentiary offense should be suspended, but who was permitted to come back here six months ago on account of the illness of his mother, with the understanding that he should behave himself, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in municipal court this morning. He appeared to be indifferent regarding the likelihood of his being sent to prison, but on the mother's account City Attorney recommended that he be given one more chance to get out of the country and stay out. THE "C. Q. D." FOR STORMS

WIRELESS TO GIVE REPORTS OF WEATHER ON THE OCEANS.

METEOROLOGISTS TO MEET

Will Davison Plan at London Conference in June to Be Submitted to the Governments of the Leading Nations.

Washington, May 24.—Ocean weather reports and storm warnings by means of the wireless (telegoni) are part of a plan to be submitted to the leading nations of the world, and if adopted the "C. Q. D." may be sent from ship to ship and then to land when a hurricane or gale is encountered at sea.

These are the leading problems to be thrashed out at a conference of distinguished meteorologists of the principal nations in London a June 21. The proposed conference is the outgrowth of a meeting of the leading meteorologists of the world in Europe several years ago. The United States will be represented by Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau.

Uniform Storm Signs.
A concerted movement will be inaugurated to induce the principal governments to adopt a uniform system of wireless telegraphy for weather reports and to reach an agreement that all nations shall display a uniform marine storm signal if such an international agreement can be effected. It is believed that this will be a great factor in saving human property on sea and land and the same time be highly important in the making of weather prediction.

These subjects will be dealt with by two committees, one on maritime weather signals and the other on weather marine telegraph.
The first committee is composed of Dr. W. N. Shaw, director of the British meteorological office; Dr. A. August, director of the Zil Ka Vobseratory at Shanghai, China; Dr. Admiral Hira, director of the Deutsches Wetterdienst at Hamburg, Germany; Dr. H. Mohr, director of the Norwegian Meteorological Institute; Prof. Willis Moore and Dr. Nakamura, director of the meteorological service of Japan in addition to Messrs. August, Hira and Moore, the other committee will be composed of Lieut. Gen. Rykatchev, director of the Central Physical Observatory of St. Petersburg, Russia.

Prof. Moore Discs Idea.
"One of the prime problems to be taken up by the conference," said Prof. Moore, "is the question of international agreement to the taking of wireless marine weather reports. The scheme is to adopt a uniform method of taking and transmitting weather observations so that observation, no matter by what means taken, will be comparable with observations taken by any other means. There is now no uniformity of receiving and transmitting wireless weather reports exactly the same things are not done."
"We shall doubt do all we can," continued Prof. Moore, "to induce the several governments ultimately to adopt regulations which will compel a ship beyond a doubt to carry wireless telegraphs and operators and to take them, (Greenwich time), a daily report of the weather."

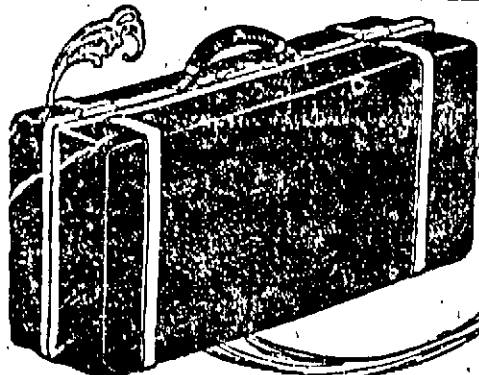

Would Be By Ships.
"Observations made by a ship would be transferred to other ships, so that by radio from one vessel to another observations from the entire ocean would be within a few minutes reach the land and the central meteorological offices in the United States, France, Germany and other international nations would be able to compile observations each in its proper position and thus to give the location of storms and let their future direction. Suggestions could be distributed to vessels in the same manner in the observations on which the forecasts were based were collected."

Prof. Moore said he intended, as a member of the committee having this matter in charge, to argue for such action.

While air vessels use flags by day and by night to convey storm warnings, the ships of other nations use, that are made up of a combination of cones and cylinders. The difference is said to be confusing and a uniform signal to display storm signals was proposed.

The BLACK BAG

"Gorblimy, 'ow' was I to know? 'Ere's a full moon no expense for 'openin' 'is cab door today, an', sezee. 'My man,' 'e sez, 'ye've got a 'onest face. 'W'y doncher work? 'sezee. 'Ow can I? sez I. 'Ere 'm I bout of a job these six months, lookin' for work every day an' earn't find it. 'Sence, 'Come an' see me this evening at me 'ome, none, 'Frogall style,' 'e sez, an'—"

"That'll do for now. You borrow a pencil and paper and write it down, and I'll read it when I've got more time. I never heard the like of it. This 'ome hasn't been lived in these two years. Move on, and don't let me find you round 'ere again, March, I say!"

There was more of it—more willing explanations actually threatened with abuse, more terse commands to depart, the whole concluding with scraggy footsteps, dimming, and another perfunctory rattle of the knob as the bobby, having shooed the putative evidence off, assured himself that no damage had actually been done. Then he, too, departed, rattled and self righted, leaving a badly frightened but very grateful amateur criminal to pursue his self appointed career of crime.

He had no choice other than to continue. In point of fact, it had been hardly just then to back out and run the risk of apprehension at the hands of that ubiquitous bobby, who, for all he knew, might be lurking not a dozen yards distant, watching for just such a sequel. Still, Kirkwood hesitated with the best of excuses. Reassuring as he had found the sentinel's extemporized yarn, proof positive that the fellow had no more right to prohibit a trespass than Kirkwood to commit one, at the same time he found himself personally a prey to emotions of the utmost consternation and alarm. If he feared to leave the house he had no warrant whatever to assume that he would be permitted to remain many minutes unharmed within its walls of mystery.

The silence of it discomfited him beyond measure. It was, in a word, uncanny.
Before him as he lingered at the door, vaguely disclosed by a wan illumination penetrating a dusty and begrimed fanlight, a broad hall stretched indefinitely toward the rear of the building, losing itself in blackness beyond the foot of a flight of stairs. Save for a few articles of furniture—a hall table, an umbrella stand, a tall, dumb clock flanked by high backed chairs—it was empty. Other than Kirkwood's own restrained respiration not a sound throughout the house advertised its habitation, not a board creaked beneath the pressure of a foot, not a mouse rustled in the wall-scotter or beneath the floor, not a breath of air stirred sighing in the stillness.

And yet a tremendous racket had been raised at the front door within the sixty seconds past. And yet within twenty minutes two persons at least had proceeded Kirkwood into the building. Had they not heard? The speculation seemed ridiculous. Or had they heard and, alarmed, been too effectually hobbled by the coils of their nervous fancies to dare reveal themselves, to investigate the cause of that thunderous summons? Or were they, perhaps, aware of Kirkwood's entrance and lying hidden in some dark corner to ambush him as he passed?

True, that was hardly like the girl. True, on the other hand, it was possible that she had stolen away while Kirkwood was laughing in irresolution by the passage to Quadrant mews. Again, the space of time between Kirkwood's dismissal and his return had been exceedingly brief. Whatever her errand, she could hardly have fulfilled it and escaped. At that moment she might be in the power and at the mercy of him who had followed her, provided he were not friendly. And in that case what torment and what peril might not be hers!

Spurred by solicitude, the young man put personal apprehensions in his pocket and forgot them, cautiously picking his way through the gloom to the foot of the stairs. Slowly he began to ascend, a hand following the balusters, the other with his cane exploring the obscurity before him. On the steps, a carpet, thick and heavy, muffled his footfalls. He moved noiselessly. Toward the top the staircase curved, and presently a foot that groped for a higher level failed to find it. Again he halted, acutely distrustful.

Nothing happened.
He went on, guided by the balustrade, passing three doors, all open, through which the undefined proportions of a drawing room and boudoir were barely suggested in a ghostly dusk. By each he paused, listening, hearing nothing.

His foot struck with a deadened thud against the bottom step of the second flight, and his pulses throbbed wildly for a moment. Two minutes—three—he waited in suspense. From above came no sound. He went on, as before, save that twice a step yielded, complaining, to his weight.

Again the misad foot found no level higher than his fellows. He stopped and held his breath, oppressed by a conviction that some one was near him. Confirmation of this came startlingly—an eerie whisper in the night, so close to him that he fancied he could feel the disturbed air fanning his face.

"Is it you, Eccles?"
He had no answer ready. The voice was muffled, if he analyzed it correctly. Dumb and stupid, he stood poised upon the point of panic.

"Eccles, is it you?"
The whisper was both shrill and slinky. As it ceased Kirkwood was half blinded by a flash of light striking him squarely in the eyes. Involun-

Hurled bodily upon him with staggering force and passion.

tarily he struck back a pace, to the first step from the top. Instantaneously the light was eclipsed.

"Light—or I die!"
By now he realized that he had been scrutinized by the aid of an electric hand lamp. The tremendous whisper told him something else—that the speaker suffered from nervous as high strung as his own. The knowledge gave him inspiration. He cried at a venture, in a guarded voice, "I am up!" and struck out smartly with his stick. Its ferrule impinged upon something soft, but heavy. Simultaneously he heard a low, frightened cry, the cause was swept aside, a blow landed glancingly on his shoulder, and he was carried fairly off his feet by the weight of a man hurled bodily upon him with staggering force and passion. Reeling, he was borne back and down a step or two and then, choking on an oath, dropped his cane and with one hand caught the balusters, while the other toe ineffectually at wrists of hands that clutched his throat. So, for a space, the two hung, panting and struggling.

Then, endeavoring to swing his shoulders over against the wall, Kirkwood released his grip on the hand rail and stumbled on the stairs, throwing his antagonist out of balance. The latter plunged downward, dragging Kirkwood with him. Clavering, kicking, grappling, they went to the bottom, jolted violently by each step, but long before the last was reached Kirkwood's throat was free.

Throwing himself off, he got to his feet and grasped the railing for support, then waited, panting, trying to get his bearings. Himself painfully shaken and bruised, he shrewdly surmised that his assailant had fared as ill, if not worse. And, in point of fact, the man lay with neither more nor less, still as death, at the American's feet.

And once more silence had folded its wings over No. 8 Frogall street. More consoling of that terrifying, motionless presence beneath him than able to distinguish it by power of vision, he endured interminable minutes of trembling horror, in a witless daze, before he thought of his mauler. Immediately he found it and struck a light. As the wood caught and the bright small flame leaped in the pent air he leaned forward over the body, breathlessly dreading what he must discover.

The man lay quiet, head upon the floor, legs and hips on the stairs. One arm had fallen over his face, hiding the upper half. The hand gleamed white and delicate as a woman's. His chin was smooth and round, his lips thin and petulant. Beneath his topcoat evening dress clothed a short and slender figure. Nothing whatever of his appearance suggested the hairy ruffian, the midnight marauder. He seemed little more than a boy old enough to dress for dinner. In his attitude there was something pitifully suggestive of a beaten child thrown into a corner.

Conscience smitten and amazed Kirkwood stared on until, without warning, the match flickered and went out. Then, straightening up with an exclamation at once of annoyance and concern, he rattled the box. It made no sound—was empty. In disgust he swore it was the devil's own luck that he should run out of vestas at a time so critical. He could not even say whether the fellow was dead, unconscious or simply stammering. He had little idea of his looks, and to be able to identify him might save a deal of trouble at some future time since he, Kirkwood, seemed so little able to disengage himself from the clutches of this insane adventure! And the girl—what had become of her? How could he continue to search for her, without lights or guide, through all those silent rooms, whose walls might enclose a hundred hidden dangers in that house of mystery?

But he debated only briefly. His blood was young, and it was hot. It was quite plain to him that he could not withdraw and retain his self respect. If the girl was there to be found, most assuredly he must find her. The hand lamp that had dazzled him at the head of the stairs should be his aid now that he thought of it—and provided he was able to find it.

In the scramble on the stairs he had lost his hat, but he remembered that the vestas short, lived light had discovered this on the floor beyond the man's body. Carefully stepping across the latter, he recovered his headgear and then, kneeling, listened with an ear close to the fellow's face. A softly regular beat of breathing reassured him. Half rising, he caught the body beneath the armpits, lifting and dragging it off the staircase, and knelt again, to feel of each pocket in the man's clothing, partly as an obvious precaution, to relieve him of his advertised revolver against an untimely venturing, partly to see if he had the lamp about him.

The search proved fruitless. Kirkwood suspected that the weapon, like his own, had existed only in his victim's ready imagination. As for the lamp, in the net of rising he struck it with his foot and picked it up.

It felt like a metal tube a couple of inches in diameter, a foot or so in length, possibly heavy. He fumbled with it impatiently. "However the dickens," he wondered audibly, "does the infernal machine work?" As it happened, the thing worked with disconcerting abruptness as his untrained fingers fell haplessly on the spring. A sudden glare again smote him in the face, and at the same instant, from a point not a yard away, apparently, an inarticulate cry rang out upon the stillness.

Camden, N.J.—"It is with pleasure that I add my testimonial to your already long list—hoping that it may induce others to avail themselves of this valuable medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from terrible headaches, pain in my back and right side, was tired and nervous, and so weak I could hardly stand. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and made me feel like a new person, and it shall always have my praise."

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."
—Miss S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 39, Gardiner, Me.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female ill, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacement, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pain, backache, that bearing-down feeling, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is worth millions to many suffering women.

COMMERCIAL LEAGUE OPENED ITS SEASON

Six Teams Belonging to League Played First Games at Various Parks on Saturday.

Lewis Knitting Co.....	1	0	1000
Y. M. C. A.....	1	0	1000
Janesville Mach. Co.....	1	0	1000
Gazette Printing Co.....	0	1	000
Parker Pen Co.....	0	1	000
Wis. Carriage Co.....	0	1	000

Considerable interest was shown at the opening games of the Commercial Baseball league Saturday, and good crowds were attracted to the various parks in the city where the teams competed. Not all of them were victorious, but the defeated ones still have hopes of defeating their opponents in the other two games which they will play with them. The showing made by all the teams was so good that the captains and managers feel confident of a most successful season.

Plans are being made for a regular system of umpiring, having certain men to act as umpires at all the games instead of picking them from the spectators, as this will save time and be satisfactory to the teams playing. There is also a possibility of an exhibition game being played at Athletic Park, Memorial Day, Monday, May 31.

Saturday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. park, the Y. M. C. A. team were victorious over the Parker Pen Co. by the score of 9 to 8. A ten-inning game was played to decide the winner, but as there was some uncertainty as to whether the score-keepers kept scores right, another contest may be held to avoid any controversy or uncertainty.

Dinner's picture was the scene of the game between the Janesville Machine company and the Gazette. In this the machineists were too strong for their opponents, defeating them 7 to 2.

The other game was played at the Fair Grounds between the "Splinters" of the Lewis Knitting company and the nine from the Wisconsin Carriage company. The "Splinters" came off with flying colors, winning 11 to 2.

Sunday Games.
Yesterday afternoon the Tomahawks won their first victory this season, beating Briggs' team 4 to 2. Hall and Dowey were the battery for the Tomahawks and Carroll and Brummond, for Briggs.

Superior stock work and better all-around playing won the game for Brown's Colts and defeated Fowler's Telephones 13 to 7 in a game yesterday afternoon. The batteries were: G. Moore and J. Brown for the Colts; and S. Willis and G. Hulbert, for the Telephones.

MRS. J. W. ADLAND DRIVING FUNERAL CARRIAGE TO HELP BLOCK CHICAGO CAB DRIVERS' STRIKE.

Chicago.—The latest move to block the Chicago cab drivers' strike was sprung when Mrs. J. W. Adland mounted the box and drove in a funeral. Mrs. Adland is the wife of one of the proprietors of the Paradise Livery company. Their business has been tied up and Mrs. Adland volunteered her services. She is an expert horse woman.

"I do not know very much about this strike," said Mrs. Adland, "and I haven't given much thought to the troubles between my husband and the drivers, but I do know that he needs a cab driver I ever saw, and a great deal better than many of them."

Other women have promised to drive carriages and hearse in funerals, if necessary.

As a counter movement to the action of the wives of the livermen and undertakers taking part in the strike, the wives of the strikers themselves will take a hand in the situation today, according to Business Agent Gibbons of the Cab Drivers' Union. Gibbons declared the wives and daughters of the strikers would go out and make a personal appeal to the employers' wives and explain the demands of the union to them.

"I do not believe the wives of the livermen will want to drive if they know just what we are asking for," said Gibbons.

The wives of the employers are mostly women who enjoy the luxuries of life. Men who get only $12 a week cannot buy the real necessities of life. Many of the employers are rich, and it is certain they all have at least one day's rest in a week, which is more than we get."

Chance for Beggars.
Beggings must be profitable in Paris, judging from a recent advertisement in a Paris paper: "For Sale—Present holder retiring to the country, good situation for one-legged man; neighborhood of the Eiffel; hours of work, 2 p. m. to 7 p. m.; receipts, from 8a. 6d. to 12s.; regular passersby, children and strangers; any infirmity would suit."

Bringing Dickens to Earth.
"Pray tell Dickens from me to remember that he is still but a man, and that however elated by this American dedication, he must return to his anthropic state, and that he will find us—you and me—good friends but bad idolaters." Thus wrote Hyndner Smith in a letter. It was written after Dickens' first visit to the United States.
